Grand Times in Grand Country

Mooresville, IN – February 14, 2012

There are now more reasons to have a grand time at Grand Country in Branson, Missouri. This popular family destination recently contracted Creative Works (www.LaserTagWorld.com) of Indianapolis to install a new Earth Quest laser tag attraction.

Grand Country has a slew of activities and entertainment options for guests. Families can splash around in their indoor/outdoor water park, eat at some of the various restaurants, catch a show in the music hall, and play games such as mini golf, laser maze, or mini bowling. This laser tag attraction provides a whole new way for guests of all ages to have fun. When designing arenas, Creative Works utilizes their 15+ years of experience building attractions to ensure the arena is fun, balanced, and safe. The multi-level 3,000 square foot arena has enough space to accommodate up to 24 players at once.

Lush foliage, glowing barrels, and themed walls provide plenty of spots for cover throughout the space. A glowing 3D center prop, flying bots, and a 14' battle droid act as geographical landmarks, allowing kids to more easily navigate the arena. The whole arena theme is tied together by airbrush murals that are hand-painted by certified artists. These waterfall, forest, and greenery murals are placed on the perimeter walls of the playing space, surrounding the guests and allowing them to escape into another world.

Glenn Robinson, the owner of the facility, was exceedingly pleased with the attraction that Creative Works provided. "Have you ever been in love? Because that's how I feel about their work in our arena!" This attraction is sure to be a success, given the foundation already set by Glenn and the rest of his staff.
